Award-Winning Author Sarah Sebring Binder Releases Silky's Road, a Heartwarming Tale of Adventure on the Ancient Silk Road

July 1, 2025 – Denver, CO and Ames, IA – Outskirts Press is pleased to announce the release of Silky's Road by Sarah Sebring Binder. Award-winning author and longtime educator Sarah Sebring Binder invites readers young and old on an unforgettable journey across the ancient Silk Road in her enchanting new book, Silky's Road, now available through major retailers worldwide.

Set in the bustling Grand Bazaar and stretching across the timeless trade routes of Anatolia (modern-day Türkiye), Silky's Road follows the curious black kitten Yedi—later named Silky—as she tumbles into an adventure of discovery, danger and unlikely friendship. Born among six siblings in the heart of the bazaar, Silky craves more than naps and spice stalls. One moonlit evening, she sneaks onto a caravan and begins a transformative voyage that challenges her independence and strengthens her courage.

Silky's journey unfolds alongside a young boy named Hasan, whose bond with the brave kitten reveals the beauty of trust, companionship and finding one's place in the world. When bandits threaten the camp, it is Silky's unexpected bravery that saves the day—earning her not only a name but a forever home.

"I wrote Silky's Road to celebrate the spirit of curiosity and the bonds we form when we journey beyond the familiar," says Binder. "It's a story inspired by the magic of travel, the wisdom of animals and the power of connection."

Combining vivid historical detail, cultural richness and gentle humor, Silky's Road is ideal for middle-grade readers and fans of classic animal adventures. Binder's background as an educator and global traveler enriches every page with empathy, authenticity and a sense of wonder.
